

PE 230 : Methods of PP&E

This course will teach students to apply the distinctive methods of the three disciplines to challenging questions in social and political philosophy, including formal analysis in economics and political science and logical and normative evaluation in philosophy. As with other PPEL core courses, the focus is on the integration of the methods from the different disciplines.

Credits 4

Didactic Hours 40